CEO Column April 2026

The Power of Your Vote and Your Voice

This month, I would like to touch on the concept of cooperative stewardship. As a member-owner of Brown County REA, you have an important role in deciding the direction of our cooperative's future.

When we hold elections for seats on our Board of Directors, I encourage you to start by reading through the biographies we publish about each of the candidates. After you've had a chance to familiarize yourself with the candidates and their reasons for running for the seat, come to our Annual Meeting ready to cast your vote for the individual you would like to represent you on the Board.

As I touched on in last month's column, Brown County REA directors are accountable to the membership. These individuals are members of our community who are familiar with the issues and priorities unique to our community. Directors are responsible for conducting the business of the cooperative, setting policies, and making decisions that will directly impact our membership.

Just as voting in a state or federal election is an important duty as a citizen of our nation, voting in BCREA's election is an opportunity for you to have your voice heard as a member of a rural electric cooperative. In this way, you can help guide the direction of the cooperative by selecting candidates you feel will represent you and fellow members well.

When you cast your vote, you are contributing to BCREA and doing your part for the community – letting your voice be heard. By taking an active role in our cooperative governance, we learn more about how to best serve you.

Another opportunity for members to have their voice heard is through our Member Advisory Council. We are currently looking for members interested in joining the council and sharing their input. If you would like to learn more about this opportunity, please contact BCREA or your director to sign up.

Have a safe spring planting!

Safety Demo Day Reinforces Job Site Awareness

A safety demo day was held with Mathiowetz Construction (MC) on Monday, March 23rd. Representatives from three electric cooperatives (South Central Electric, BENCO, and BCREA) spent the day leading 20-minute sessions – cycling through MC’s employees in groups of nine.

The instructors were Lucas from South Central Electric, Chris from BENCO, and Adam from BCREA. MC staff work around electric utility equipment often; reminding them of the safety details and how cooperatives can help them stay safe was the objective of the demo.

Notice of Cogeneration

In compliance with Brown County Rural Electrical Association (REA)'s adopted rules relating to cogeneration and small power production, Brown County REA is obligated to interconnect with and purchase electricity from cogeneration and small power producers, whom satisfy the conditions as a qualifying facility. Brown County REA is obligated to provide information free of charge to all interested members, upon request, regarding rates and interconnection requirements. All interconnections require an application and approval to become a qualifying facility. Annual Line Patrol

Brown County REA crews are continuing their annual line patrol. During this time, crews may need to access yards and private property throughout the service area. Linemen will be inspecting equipment and infrastructure to identify maintenance needs, including loose or missing guy wires and guards, damaged lines, and proper line clearance. Crews will also perform maintenance on OCRs, as well as overhead and underground lines. This work will continue through early spring.

When the lights go out, lineworkers are ready to answer the call, day or night, to safely restore power and keep our communities moving forward. They take pride in powering the places we call home. Today and every day, we thank lineworkers for their service and commitment.
